

Gathered in Masks, Gathered in Love

Amanda Udis-Kessler, July 14, 2020

One: We gather today in masks.

Many: We gather today in love.

One: Wearing masks shows our commitment to the health of all people.

Many: We gather today in compassion.

One: Wearing masks enables us to welcome others into our physical space.

Many: We gather today in hospitality.

One: Wearing masks embodies our willingness to be uncomfortable so that others might live.

Many: We gather today in generosity.

One: Wearing masks reminds us of the interconnection of all people in a sacred web of existence.

Many: We gather today in humility.

One: Wearing masks, we love our neighbor as ourselves.

Many: Wearing masks, we tend to the least of these.

One: Wearing masks, we honor the value of every person among us.

Many: We gather today in masks.

All: We gather today in love.
